

Automated reporting with just one click

Popdock communicates automatically between your web applications so you can focus on your most important tasks

Track performance. Discover insights.

Link unrelated data sets, including data from unique applications, while filtering and grouping the data you need within the system you work in daily.

Popdock enables collaboration with data controls, ensuring safe and effective access across the ecosystem. With data access, every interaction can be relevant, addressable, and measurable.

Goodbye Reporting Silos

A modern business uses more than 15 different software applications. Manual reports are highly subject to errors and inaccuracies.

Popdock integrates all your data from on-premises and cloud applications into a single app – in real time.

Popdock is the answer for all your integrated BI and daily reporting needs.
